To all our valued StemFit users,

We are announcing the discontinuation of StemFit Basic02 and Basic04 from our family of products, effective summer 2021. While we regret any inconvenience that this may cause, we are eager to assist you in switching to our next generation products which have retained substantially similar compositions, such as StemFit Basic03 and Basic04Complete Type.

We greatly appreciate your support and trust in the StemFit brand, and hope to make the transition to our other product offerings as easy as possible. Additionally, we plan to address your short-term needs by providing a finite supply of Basic02 and Basic04 over the course of the next year, at your request, while continuing to offer industry-leading technical support.

We see a bright future for stem cell research, and hope to continue being a small part of your contributions to this groundbreaking field.

Best regards,

Ajinomoto Co., Inc.
